

ABSTRACT

A mobile satellite telecommunications system is disclosed including at least one user terminal, at least one satellite in earth orbit, and at least a gateway bidirectionally coupled to a data communications network wherein a user terminal comprises a controller responsive to applications for selecting individual ones of a plurality of Quality of Service modes for servicing different application requirements.